

Regal Rexnord boosts support for industry across Southeast Asia with new Singapore office

12 January 2026

Regal Rexnord™ has opened its new office in Singapore, uniting employees and capabilities from across its former sites into a single modern, region-focused location. The move combines two existing offices and marks an important step in enhancing cooperation across its extensive family of well-known brands, including CENTA™, Jaure™, Kollmorgen™, Nicotra™ and Falk™.

By bringing together teams from across Singapore under one roof, Regal Rexnord is able to offer a more streamlined experience to customers seeking mechanical power transmission, motion control and automation solutions.

The company serves a wide range of industries across Southeast Asia, including mining, marine, logistics, cooling towers, oil and gas, and heavy industrial operations. Singapore's role as a regional hub for EPCs, OEMs and system integrators makes it a natural base for supporting projects throughout Asia.

The new facility consolidates several of Regal Rexnord's existing offices in Singapore to a single larger location designed to support collaboration, customer engagement and future expansion. It also enhances support for the entire power train by allowing teams from across the company's brands to more easily work together and share expertise.

The office's central location also makes it more accessible for customers and partners operating across the region. With extensive room for future growth and a strong foundation for cross-brand collaboration, the Singapore location strengthens Regal Rexnord's presence in Southeast Asia and underscores its long-term commitment to the region.

"Bringing our teams from across Singapore into a single space reinforces the message that we are one Regal Rexnord," said Shih Pin Tan, Sales Director for Southeast Asia. "It allows us to provide a single localized point of contact while continuing to support customers with the trusted brands and expertise they rely on."
